Three Locations Proposed For Chester Bridge

Three proposed locations for a new Chester Bridge that have been outlined for the West Virginia State Road Commission were pinpointed publicly for the first time at a meeting Friday afternoon in City Hall.

A feasibility study made by the consulting engineering firm of Wilbur Smith Associates has recommended that West Virginia build the new span in one of these spots:

Across the downstream tip of Babb's Island, commencing in the area of the River Rd. on the Ohio side and terminating on Pennsylvania Ave. in Chester.

A few feet upstream from the present span, starting from E. 3rd St. on the East Liverpool side and also terminating on Pennsylvania Ave. in Chester. As an extension of Washington St., tying into the proposed East Liverpool Freeway extension with an interchange and ending at a spot directly opposite on the West Virginia side.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS of the West Virginia consultant were revealed at a meeting in Mayor George E. Willshaw's office by officials of the Division 11 office of the Ohio Highway Department at New Philadelphia and the consulting engineering firm of Glaus, Pyle and Schomer of Youngstown.

The Youngstown concern is under contract with the Ohio Highway Department to update the preliminary survey for extension of the Freeway from

W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. to East End.

The highway department and the private engineering firm obtained the recommendations on the new span because it must be tied in on the Ohio side with the Freeway.

Levi (Jack) Kimble, head of the Division 11 office, Sherman Price, his engineer in charge of location and design, and Robert Schomer and William DeHaven of the consulting firm acted as the principal spokesmen.

Kimble emphasized several points:

The new bridge will be entirely a West Virginia project unless Ohio is expected to handle the construction from the state line — the low water mark on the Ohio side — to the connection with the Freeway.

THE COST almost without question will be covered by tolls on motorists, as West Virginia would have no other practical way of financing a project in the $3 million range. The assumption is that the new span will be four lanes wide, but there is no definite information on this point.

No determination of the bridge location will be made for four to six months. Glaus, Pyle and Schomer must complete its updating of the Freeway plan and its detailed study of the bridge sites. Then officials from the two states, along with East Liverpool spokesmen, would thresh out the question of the spot where the span will be built.

No determination could be made until West Virginia officials have all the information necessary to a decision and there is no indication the West Virginia studies are moving at the same pace as those in Ohio.

DeHaven said a minimum of four months would be required for completion of the Glaus, Pyle and Schomer study, as it is only in its preliminary stages. At the time the engineering firm was given the contract to update the Freeway study, there was no indication a new bridge would be built, Kimble pointed out. That became an added factor after the Freeway study contact was let, he explained.

Recommendations of the West

Virginia consultant on the bridge location have been discussed before the Steubenville - Weirton Area Transportation Study group (SWATS) but the sites never were pinpointed. The SWATS group said at one time the consultant recommended "two sites upstream from the existing bridge and one downstream" without listing definite spots.

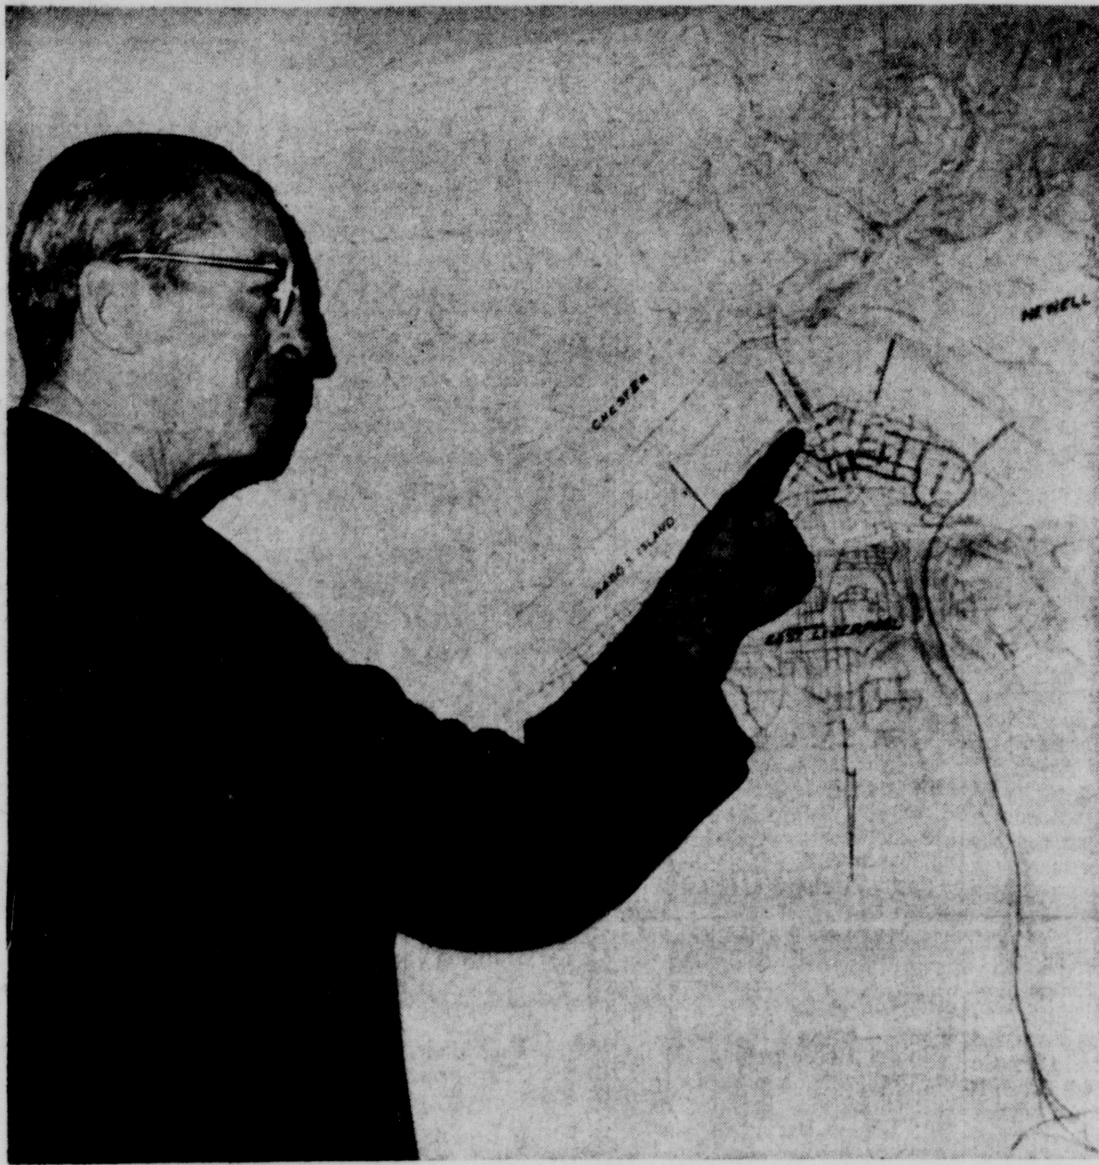

DEHAVEN pointed out that the path the four-lane Freeway extension will follow through the downtown area still has not been determined. That means the two projects must be tied together in the study—the best path for the Freeway and the best location for the Ohio end of the new bridge, he said.

Copies of sketches made by the West Virginia consultant were exhibited at the local meeting yesterday.

The drawing of the proposal for erecting the span as an extension of Washington St. showed the Freeway following a path parallel with Center Ln.—the alley south of 3rd St. It also showed access ramps for the Ohio end of the span extending as far north of E. Church Alley — at the rear of the YMCA and The Review building.

Price said East Liverpool officials formerly expressed opposition to the Washington St. site on the grounds that the location "would take too much downtown property." Engineer George S. Bloomgren and Safe-

Key Bargaining Due Next Week On Viet

Agreement Reached On Procedure

Fast Action Means No More Haggling On Minor Matters

PARIS (AP)—The four representatives at the new Vietnam peace talks reached full agreement today on all procedural matters and real negotiations will begin early next week, the U.S. delegation reported.

After a five-hour and 15-minute meeting with representatives of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front—NLF—Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance told reporters: "I am happy to report that we have reached full agreement on all procedural questions for the first plenary session which will take place early next week."

The U.S. ambassador gave no immediate details on the procedural format for the peace negotiations. But he said: "I am happy that we are getting down to the serious business of making peace in Vietnam."

The swift disposal of procedural questions means that there will be no more haggling over matters not directly concerned with the achievement of a Vietnam peace.

The meeting, which began at 10:30 a.m. in the International Conference Center, got off to a flying start when North Vietnam at once proposed that the first meeting on matters of substance should begin early next week.

This was just what the Americans had said they wanted.

According to the North Vietnamese spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, the National Liberation Front had proposed to hold the first plenary session Tuesday.

But, Le said, Vance had decided.

Pact's Okay Ends Walkout At Titanium

The 15-week-old strike against the Titanium Metals Corp. at Toronto ended Friday when nearly 800 employees ratified a new contract proposal.

Frank Rogers, an official of Local 5644 of the United Steelworkers, said the new pact was "the best to be negotiated with Titanium."

Details of the settlement included an increase for the average worker of 80½ cents an hour over a three-year period.

The increase is believed to be 30½ cents an hour over the basic steelworker's package immediately, with an additional boost of 22 cents hourly in each of the following two years.

The clerical and technical workers represented by Local 7222 also obtained increases in turn differential pay. The afternoon shift will receive a differential increase from 8 cents to 15 cents and the midnight shift from 12 to 20 cents.

Union and management also announced a 13-week vacation program for employees with five years seniority. Overtime grievance will be paid and a pension plan is included.

Bill Would Speed Housing 'Rights'

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Legislative bills to strengthen the West Virginia Human Rights Commission and create a state law enforcement Standards and Training Commission were introduced in the House and Senate Friday.

House Speaker Ivor Boiarsky and House Minority Leader George Seibert Jr. co-authored the bill permitting the HRC to cover discrimination in the sale, rental and financing of housing.

The present law governs only employment and access to public accommodations.

THE BILL states that "equal opportunity in housing accommodations or real property is hereby declared to be a human right or civil right of all persons without regard to race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry."

The second bill, co-sponsored by Senate President Lloyd Jackson and Sen. Chester Hubbard, would give the commission power to set minimum qualifications and training requirements for state and local police. The commission would have 15 members, most appointed by the governor.

Also introduced were bills to: Require the governor to submit to the legislature plans for reorganization and consolidation of the executive branch of state government into 23 agencies specified in the bill (Sen. Mario J. Palumbo, D-Kanawha).

Revise state law providing for payment of relocation costs to persons displaced by highway construction to conform with provisions of an expanded federal relocation assistance program (Sen. R. I. Barnett, D-Mercer).

Authorize the state road commissioner to channel to municipalities federal highway funds allocable to them under the Federal Highway Act of 1968 (Sen. Barnett).

Makes 'Soft Landing'

Fourth Cosmonaut Lands, Completing Soviet Flight

MOSCOW (AP)—Cosmonaut Boris Volynov landed safely in the Soviet Union today, successfully completing a four-man mission in which the Soviet Union achieved the world's first crew transfer between orbiting spaceships.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Volynov's Soyuz 5 craft made a soft landing at 11 a.m. Moscow time, 124 miles southwest of the city of Kustanay. This would put him a few hundred miles northwest of the space center at Baikonir, where Soyuz 5 was launched Wednesday.

Volynov "feels good," Tass reported. "All experiments were fully completed."

His landing came one day after er three other cosmonauts made a soft landing in the Soviet Union aboard Soyuz 4. Two of them, Alexei Yeliseyev and Yevgeny Khronov, had made space walks Thursday from Volynov's craft to join Vladimir Shatalov aboard Soyuz 4.

Tass said a breaking rocket on Volynov's spaceship was fired at a predetermined time and the craft descended into the atmosphere, slowed by parachutes.

Apparently using the same landing technique as Soyuz 4, the Soyuz 5 separated into two sections during the landing. Tass said, Volynov was aboard the crew capsule, while the working quarters in a section called the orbital compartment descended separately.

The flight of Soyuz 5 lasted 72 hours 46 minutes. Counting the

Ice Situation Eases Throughout Valley

CINCINNATI (AP)—A potentially damaging ice situation in the Ohio River Valley has not materialized beyond the state of a threat.

The Weather Bureau reported early today that the Ohio River remained nearly stationary as did most of its tributaries throughout Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

The valley had been placed under a flood alert as river forecasters expected tributary ice to begin flowing into the Ohio River following warming temperatures and rain. Rain Friday was not heavy and forecasters had said at least half an inch would be needed to bring about any marked effect on river levels.

Withdrawal Set On Some U.S. Troops

100,000 Could Be Affected By End Of Year In Viet

SAIGON (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu announced today some American combat troops will be withdrawn from South Vietnam this year and he has directed his military chief of staff to draft a timetable with the U.S. Command.

Thieu did not say how many of the 532,500 U.S. troops in the country would be withdrawn, and added "detailed plans will first have to be developed by the military staffs of the two countries before specific timing can be developed."

But sources said the initial withdrawal might affect 20,000 troops and 100,000 might be phased out by the end of the year.

An aide to Gen. Cao Van Vien, chief of South Vietnam's armed forces, said Vien conferred with the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, last week. A spokesman for Abrams said further discussions are scheduled between the two.

Abrams is understood to have reluctantly accepted the fact that some American troops will have to be withdrawn soon, but he is opposed to any cutback until mid-July.

Abrams believes the South Vietnamese army will not be good enough to fill the gaps until then. He also wants to keep the enemy "on the run," sources said, and would prefer to await developments at the Paris peace talks before paring U.S. strength.

Thieu's announcement came a few hours before the first scheduled meeting of the enlarged

Paris Proposes Big Four Talks

U. S., French Plans Aired For Middle East Meeting

By The Associated Press

France has called for a Big Four conference aimed at settling the Middle East crisis, but the United States is reported backing a peacemaking plan which would include provisions for direct talks between the Arab states and Israel.

The Washington Evening Star, in a story following the French announcement Friday, quoted qualified sources as saying Secretary of State Dean Rusk outlined a form of two-track negotiations in a note handed to Soviet Charge d'Affaires Yuri N. Tcherniakov.

The Star said Rusk's note proposed talks between the United States and the Soviet Union, and separate talks between Israel and the Arab states under a U.N. "umbrella."

The talks between the two big powers, the newspaper reported, would be to help U.N. special envoy Gunnar V. Jarring mark out "the perimeters" for detailed Arab-Israeli negotiations. Jarring reportedly would mediate the talks between the Arabs and Israelis.

The French proposal, issued at the United Nations and in Paris, suggested that France, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union meet at the United Nations to discuss ways to end the Middle East dispute.

The nations are among the five permanent members of the 15-nation U.N. Security Council. The fifth, Nationalist China, is not recognized by the Soviet Union.

The French statement avoided any implication that the Big Four would attempt to impose a settlement, but indicated the aim of the meeting would be to implement the Security Council's November 1967 Middle East resolution.

The resolution called for Arab recognition of Israel and Israel's withdrawal from Arab territory occupied in the June 1967 war.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel said Friday the Soviet Union's latest plan for peace in the Middle East displayed "a low level of thought, politics and expression."

Snow, Rain And Fog Snarl Plane And Highway Travel

Snow, rain and thick fog hobbled travel by air and over highways through a large part of the nation's midsection today.

A storm which swept out of the central plains Friday flung a blanket of snow from Nebraska to upper Michigan. Seven-inch accumulations whitened eastern Nebraska and prevented airliners from landing at Omaha for a time.

Six-inch snows coated Eau Claire and Wausau in western Wisconsin before daybreak. Heavy-snow warnings extended northeastward into upper Michigan.

Fog and rain soaked in much of the region south of the snow belt and ranged down to the Gulf of Mexico. Sometimes freezing drizzle posed a hazard for motorists in portions of Iowa and northwestern Illinois. American Motors Corp. plants at Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., were closed when icy roads curtailed truck deliveries of parts.

Heavy fog shut down Houston's W.P. Hobby Airport Friday night for the second time of the day. The Houston ship channel carried only limited traffic.

At Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, where takeoffs and landings normally number 70 an hour, the figure dropped to 30 an hour at times Friday due to persistent fog.

Walkout Ends At Bliss Co. In Midland

Employees of the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. in Midland will return to work beginning midnight Sunday following a three-day work stoppage.

Company representatives and union officials are scheduled to meet Monday at 10 a. m. at the Midland plant offices to discuss the grievances.

The union called a meeting of the workers for 1 p. m. Friday at the USW-CIO Hall in Midland to discuss complaints. However, leaders of the union were summoned to work in a statement by the company that if they didn't return to their jobs, they could be labeled strike leaders and be in jeopardy of losing their jobs.

Dwayne Cooper, staff representative of Local 1269, said he called company officials in Pittsburgh to complain that the union members were being denied leadership. The union members were allowed to join in the meeting, which was already in progress.

Cooper said the work stoppage occurred because of a contract signed Nov. 1 in which the company promised to settle local grievances, which as yet hasn't been done. Some of these include incentives, seniority and dissatisfaction because the company has not distributed contract booklets.

"This decision," he said, "was taken on the basis of our existing strength and the strong confidence in that real strength, and not on the basis of any political or other reason."

Thieu's office also released a message sent by the president to President Johnson on his leaving office.

"Free Vietnam," Thieu said, "is today substantially stronger than it was, militarily as well as politically, and we shall not forget that it was mostly thanks to you that we have achieved these results."

Lau listed four recommendations:

"2. All press, radio and television to be admitted for 15 minutes before the start of the first plenary session.

"3. The plenary session of the conference for substantive discussions will be held early next week in the international conference center.

"4. In view of the greater number of persons, the French government shall be requested to put at our disposal the big hall."

Fire Death Stirs Fear Of Violence

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak leaders fear a youth who set himself afire might die and set off a new wave of violent demonstrations against this nation's Soviet occupiers.

The youth, Jan Palach, 21, immolated himself Thursday to "awaken the people" to their plight under Kremlin domination. He was reported in "very grave" condition today with burns covering 85 per cent of his body.

Reaction to his act was already apparent on tense city streets, among groups of workers huddled on Wenceslas Square, on university campuses, and among groups of Communist Party Central Committee members in Prague Castle.

A declaration by Palach's fellow student at the Philosophical Faculty of Charles University blamed the Soviet Union and the Prague leadership for his act. It said that "under these conditions the hope that any time in the future we may find common language with this leadership is definitely disappearing."

Another declaration by the Scientific Council of the university referred to Palach's act as "the first horrible cry of warning."

"Again and again we are asked for confidence, patience and concrete work," it said. "But how can we trust, be patient, work peacefully, when we have no influence on who governs us and how they govern?"

The students apparently placed little stock in published resolutions and speeches of the Central Committee meeting Friday that promised adherence to the preinvasion reform policies as modified in November and December. Students have been in the forefront of the battle to restore freedoms lost since Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia last August.

Only Hickel Awaits Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel remains alone on the firing line with the other 11 Nixon Cabinet nominees cleared informally for speedy Senate approval after the inauguration Monday.

Indications were the Senate Interior Committee, after reviewing Hickel's plans for avoiding conflicts of interest, would endorse his nomination by the time Richard Nixon takes the oath Monday.

In developments Friday: —The Senate Armed Services Committee approved the nominations of Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin to be secretary of defense and David Packard of California to be deputy secretary.

The action involved approval of Packard's plan to put in a charitable trust his substantial holdings in a firm doing government business.

—The Senate Finance Committee endorsed the appointments of David Kennedy of Chicago as secretary of the Treasury and Robert Finch, lieutenant governor of California, as secretary of health, education and welfare.

After five hours of discussion, that committee and Kennedy worked out an agreement on his plan to put into a trust his stock in the Continental Bank of Illinois, which he has headed. The trustee will be instructed to diversify his holdings.

Chairman Henry M. Jackson of the Senate Interior Committee said he was fully satisfied with millionaire Hickel's plans to divest himself of holdings and make other financial arrangements to avoid conflicts of interest.

"I don't see any possibility of conflict," Jackson said.

The committee wound up three days of public hearings during which Hickel was questioned intensively about his views on water pollution and conservation and his handling of natives' land claims and oil leases while governor.

Most other Cabinet nominees appeared only once before Senate committees handling their respective appointments.

Hickel's statements on conservation and water pollution shortly after his appointment touched off a furor among conservation groups. He said he had been misunderstood.

On the Packard nomination, Chairman John Stennis of the Armed Services Committee said the trust plan, from which the appointee will not profit, "fully protects the public interest."

Packard owns 3 1/2 million shares of stock, valued at $300 million, in the Hewlett-Packard Corp., which makes electronic-measuring instruments. About a third of its business is with the government, primarily the Pentagon.

Selling the stock, he has said, would depress its market value, harm other shareholders and jeopardize the present management of the company.

Kennedy won committee approval after agreeing to revisions in his stock plan. It was agreed that a trustee other than his bank would be named and he decide before taking office whether to exercise options to purchase 30,000 shares of the bank's stock.

Others cleared for approval are William Rogers of state, George Romney of housing and urban development, Maurice Stans of commerce, John Mitchell as attorney general, John Volpe of transportation, Winton Blount as postmaster general, George Shultz of labor and Clifford Hardin of agriculture.

Bridge

ty - Service Director Robert Vodrey nodded their heads in agreement with his statement.

DeHaven said the West Virginia sketches showing the Freeway path south of E. 3rd St. is simply an assumption because no determination has been made on exactly where the new highway will be built.

Kimble said the present Chester Bridge, even with a restricted load limit and a height barrier to keep trucks off the span, carries 15,000 vehicles a day. The traffic count would hit 22,000 a day with normal traffic, he said.

AFTER pointing out the proposed bridge locations on a map, Kimble said: "We don't know if any of the three will fit in with what Glaus, Pyle and Schomer will propose for the Freeway. But we will need an adequate connection with the new highway to meet minimum Ohio standards before we can give our approval."

The study made by Wilbur Smith Associates "considered only feasible locations from the West Virginia standpoint," Kimble said. "We have to satisfy East Liverpool that whichever location is chosen will fit in with the city's overall planning."

Kimble estimated it will be "three to four months before West Virginia can come up with a definite decision on location. He said he expects it will be six months before Ohio officials can make a definite determination on the site from the Ohio standpoint.

DeHaven agreed the Glaus, Pyle and Schomer study will require six months and added: "We will talk with a lot of people in East Liverpool in the meantime to learn what they believe is the most desirable site." He added that it will be "difficult to design an interchange on the Ohio side that would be economically feasible" because of the rugged terrain and the huge volume of earth - moving that would be required to fit in a Freeway, an interchange and the end of the span.

DeHaven said the engineering firm will make a recommendation on what appears to be the most feasible plan, but also will study alternates and furnish data on them.

Kimble emphasized that "it's not our purpose here to make any decision on location" and said that no one "should pre-judge any of the three propositions until we have sufficient information."

Any location which Ohio officials agree to for the span "has to be approved by the City of East Liverpool, according to Ohio law," Kimble said. He indicated that the studies made to date by West Virginia are aimed primarily at determining the "feasibility" of erecting a span and that no steps have been made toward detailed planning.

Others attending the meeting were Council President Norman Bucher, Councilmen Frank Duffy and Donal I. Burcham, County Commissioners Charles Gause, James Boyd and Max Gard, County Engineer Bert Dawson Jr., Planning Coordinator Don Eckert, Francis H. Lang, chairman of the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce, E. R. Chandler, executive manager of the Chamber, and Charles Taylor of the North Hancock County Development Association.

Western experts have acclaimed the Soyuz mission as a step toward assembly of permanent space stations and orbiting laboratories, where scientists and cosmonauts can be ferried back and forth from earth.

Foreign commentators also have noted the military value of permanent manned earth satellites.

In addition to the world's first crew transfer, the mission also achieved the first docking of two manned orbiting spacecraft. The United States pioneered docking techniques years ago with its manned Gemini craft, but they linked only with unmanned ships.

Quechua, the language of the ancient Incas, is still the spoken language of more than five million Indians in Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador.

Others attending the meeting were Council President Norman Bucher, Councilmen Frank Duffy and Donald I. Burcham, County Commissioners Charles Gause, James Boyd and Max Gard, County Engineer Bert Dawson Jr., Planning Coordinator Don Eckert, Francis H. Lang, chairman of the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce, E. R. Chandler, executive manager of the Chamber, and Charles Taylor of the North Hancock County Development Association.

Administration Changeover Smooth

The incoming and outgoing administrations in Washington are to be complimented on the smoothness of the potentially troublesome transition.

President Johnson has conducted the affairs of state normally with frequent consultation with president-elect Nixon in a quest for continuity.

Mr. Nixon has worked hard for a harmonious relationship in the national interest while being careful not to box himself in with unwanted policies.

MR. NIXON'S SUPPORT of the President's attempt to break the Paris impasse and retention of the surtax are the latest examples of coordination.

Some of the president-elect's team members have made good impressions in Washington and, in some cases, have even sparked something akin to enthusiasm.

William P. Rogers, secretary of state designate, has earned the respect of those presently running the State Department.

At the Health, Education and Welfare Department, Robert H. Finch, secretary designate, has put at ease the minds of doubters who felt the Nixon administration would ditch all federal social programs.

George Romney, who will be in charge of the Department of Housing and Urban Development for Mr. Nixon, has touched off much goodwill as he prepares to take over.

THE NIXON TEAM, taking a cue from the president-elect, has refrained from public statements of criticism or getting into verbal sparring matches that would make the changeover tense.

American citizens who are ashamed of the archaic Electoral College system of electing a president can take pride in the current exchange of government control that has been guided by the consciences of the men involved.

Legal And Moral Guilt

Teen-aged drinking and sales to minors continue apace in Hancock County and elsewhere, testifying to the lax attitudes not only of some police and tavern owners but of parents who have succumbed to the "permissiveness" of the times.

The Hancock County Grand Jury this week has suggested law enforcement officers exert more effort at curbing these violations by getting proper evidence.

Evaluation of the maturity levels of young people vary and has changed greatly in recent years. But the sale of beer and liquor is prohibited to the underage in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and this newspaper has published sufficient stories of serious traffic accidents and crimes involving drunken juveniles to substantiate the wisdom of these laws.

Police, parents and liquor license holders who fail to measure up to their responsibilities not only have a legal guilt but a moral one.

Interest At The Top

Signs are sprouting here and there that business management is responding to its expanded responsibility in a new era created by rapidly advancing technical development.

Concern in the era dominated by the technological revolution is directed at both people and products.

Last autumn, G. William Miller, president of Textron, Inc., addressed a group of businessmen and hurled this challenge at them:

"Can't we convince the young that business, too, has the heart and soul to understand the new era and to work for a better world. Can't we prove that we are a concerned management, a management that can take their vitality and their hope and put it to work so that we all gain."

The businessman, in plugging for thinking and action designed to attract the vitality of youth to management and prodding executives to take on social problems, did not forget the necessity for profit-making.

He said: "... I am not at all suggesting that in the course of its response business should give up its primary purpose of making money. I'm suggesting that in taking up its role of social action, business is responding to its mission of making a return for its shareholders."

"To fulfill this role, business must make investments in human resources, just as it is investing in new plants or new products."

Mr. Miller's message was clear: "The area of public affairs should be a permanent and essential function of business. It's time we put it on the organizational chart."

Management's interest in the hard-core unemployed, as demonstrated by a multitude of programs attacking the problem, and the new stress being placed on getting new businesses and new money into ghetto areas are an indication that social concern has penetrated top business levels.

Pity The Peacemaker

The Soviet Union, which is acting out a role in the Middle East that hardly fits its reputation — that of peacemaker, is finding it a role more apt to elicit brickbats than bouquets.

Although the United States has endorsed, with qualifications, the Soviet proposals for a Middle East settlement, the nations directly involved have not responded so favorably.

IN LEBANON, both pro-Nasser and right-wing newspapers are becoming increasingly critical of the Soviet plan for reaching accord. When you add their voices to those of the Syrian government and the Palestinian commando organization, Al Fatah, the degree of disapproval of the Russian proposal becomes apparent.

The latter two groups insist that armed struggle is the only course of action that will have lasting meaning.

A proletarian paper in Egypt has taken the position that the Soviet plan actually will benefit Israel. Another paper charges Russia would have done better to withdraw recognition of Israel.

A rightist publication assailed the Russian proposal also, claiming that the Soviet Union is merely serving its own interest by attempting to get the Suez Canal reopened. The canal has been closed since the 1967 war.

Another right-wing publication said bluntly that the Russians are "looking after their own interests, even at the expense of their friends, the Arabs." Now they are being assailed from both sides and apparently are pleasing no one.

Their predicament presents an opening for shrewd diplomacy by the United States. It is an opportunity for the Nixon administration.

Error In Judgment

A new element has been introduced into the already tense circumstances surrounding airline hijackings to Havana.

A Delta Airlines stewardess thwarted an attempted hijacking Monday by disregarding a shotgun held by a passenger who ordered the plane to Cuba.

After the obstinate stewardess slammed a cabin door in the face of the would-be hijacker, the plane continued to Miami from Detroit.

LUCKILY THE PASSENGER gave up the hijacking idea after the stewardess rejected his order.

The airline completed a safe trip and the man accused of attempting to pirate the plane has been jailed.

The story could have had a much different ending.

Desperate, emotionally spent and mentally deranged hijackers are too dangerous to play games with. The safety of other passengers and the crew is also at stake.

A frustrated hijacker could easily go berserk, shoot up other passengers or sabotage the plane.

All steps possible should be taken to prevent hijackings but once the die has been cast, the safety of passengers and the plane take priority over a showdown with a gun-toting lawbreaker.

In one of Saturday's hijackings, the man who detoured a United Airlines Jacksonville-Miami flight to Cuba was obviously mentally unbalanced.

LONG BEFORE the plane made it to Havana, the man became convinced the aircraft was on the ground in Cuba and tried to get the crew to open the door. The plane was at 10,000 feet at the time.

Often this is the type of person stewardesses and crews have to deal with on the side trips to Havana — much too unstable to be reasonable.

All passengers assume a reasonable risk when they board a plane but a high-altitude argument with an armed hijacker is not part of the bargain.

The courage of the Delta stewardess is not in question. It required intestinal fortitude to resist the would-be hijacker who had a shotgun in the pit of her stomach.

It was her judgment that was in error.

Delta and other airlines would do well to inform their personnel that the risk involved in arguing with a passenger bent on hijacking is too great to make it a credible course of action.

Still On The Rise

Among other rising prices, consumers can expect higher automobile insurance costs in 1969. Insurance executives attribute the predicted increase to higher garage and medical bills.

Experts report, however, that the news isn't all bad for American motorists. They claim there is some hope the trend can be reversed — although it won't be this year.

The American Insurance Association has said policyholders would receive "substantial" savings if claims could be paid on the basis of "loss, not fault."

Congressional committees have been listening for the past two years to critics who say the present adversary claims system is cumbersome, discriminatory and costly.

The association's recommendation for a no-fault compensation system of auto insurance netted both praise and criticism from inside and outside the insurance industry.

The merits of the proposal still are being debated.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee will resume hearings in February on such matters as whether the states are adequately regulating insurance companies and their rate-making procedures. The panel expects legislation to be forthcoming this year.

But the Senate Commerce Committee, which also has been looking into automobile insurance, doesn't expect congressional action until the Department of Transportation completes a study in May of 1970.

A Few More Bricks Would Help

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Would Replace Spiro

WASHINGTON — There were many among those who came to inaugurate Dick Nixon who talked of burying Ted Agnew.

They plan to make the man from Maryland a one-term vice president. They have a candidate to replace him and even a slogan: "It's a cinch for Finch."

Thus among those who came not for the frivolities but for contacts in an assemblage such as has not gathered for 16 years, there is the beginning of the move, which will escalate, to forge a Nixon-Finch ticket for 1972.

For his promoters, former California Lt. Governor Robert H. Finch has all the virtues needed to fight off a Humphrey-Kennedy ticket, or any ticket the Democrats can whip up in the next four years.

First off, Bob Finch wants to run for vice president. With motivation no obstacle, the rest comes naturally. He is 43 years old, a marine veteran of the '41-'45 and Korean wars, sledgehammer campaigner, and the man they say can bridge the Eastern and Western establishments.

All talk of a premature boom is brushed aside by Mr. Finch's offstage backers. They say what's good enough for the Democrats, who already seem to have set their 1972 slate, is good enough for the Republicans.

THERE IS NO PERSONAL antagonism toward Spiro Agnew. There is a feeling he's been dealt unfairly by some newsmen. There's sympathy and empathy when he tells of his most spirited moment of the campaign.

This came in Boston when he was about to leave his hotel room for the grand ballroom to deliver a speech. He picked up some news clippings, read them on the way down and then sadly told the audience that he had been described as such a Neanderthal, he would have appeared in loin cloth waving a stone axe had he had the chance to outfit himself.

But this only strengthens the position of the Finch people. Empathy won't win votes or elections. They predict that '72 will be closer than '68. And they say that Mr. Agnew would drag the ticket.

Insiders point out that Ted Agnew was chosen personally by Mr. Nixon to offset George Wallace's appeal. The Maryland governor therefore got the vice presidential nomination virtually by default.

WHEN IT CAME DOWN TO the line late last August, the choice had narrowed to Governors Agnew and Reagan. There never was any real consideration of Mayor Lindsay, Gov. Rockefeller or Sen. Percy. Mr. Nixon, who out of traditional political strategy would have moved to the left to cut into Mr. Humphrey's vote, found himself forced to the right to cut into Mr. Wallace's strength.

Only Ronald Reagan and Ted Agnew could do that. And political realists know that a Nixon-Reagan ticket would have overbalanced it, though Mr. Nixon was in desperate need of strength in California.

So practically by default, the decision went to Gov. Agnew.

But in 1972, the insiders say, the Wallace strength will disintegrate. There will be no war. There will be money for the inner cities. The issues will be different. So they say Ted Agnew must go. Bob Finch must be built up.

And he's in the spot for a boom. As Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, he'll minister to scores of millions social security, medicaid, school funds and planning for the aged, digging into every problem of most families in the ugly modern megalopolis.

THIS WILL KEEP him in the headlines. Of all the cabinet men, his post gives him the freest wheeling, the widest coverage of the citizenry, and the greatest chance to address himself directly to the hard-core millions of the big cities.

But most important will be the spreading certainty that Bob Finch, of all the inner council, is closest to Dick Nixon. The others are Mr. Nixon's friends. Mr. Finch is an intimate — family, so to speak. They've been through many political wars together.

And those who know Dick Nixon know that's what he needs most — someone who'll move with him with instinctive understanding. He wants to give the country a new management team. And this is his way.

And he must prepare, during every minute of the next four years, for the '72 election.

There are those who say he can do this only if the understanding spreads that "it's a cinch for Finch." And that Ted Agnew is just passing through.

Timely Quotes

"There is an overwhelming tendency in education to believe that somehow, if students just learn more, the quality of the education would be higher — which I don't believe. Students have almost no leisure. I believe that if students had more leisure to talk, more leisure to go to the library — if only just to prove that a teacher is wrong — this alone would be a tremendous education."

—Bergan Evans, author, lexicographer and professor of English at Northwestern University.

"This is like extolling alcohol to the Women's Christian Temperance Union, but I feel the dangers of increasing our population are sometimes overstated."

—Dr. Ansley Coale, director of population research at Princeton University, speaking to the conference of Planned Parenthood-World Population.

The Party And President

The meeting between President-elect Nixon and Republican National Committee Chairman Ray Bliss Jan. 10 was far from a mere routine affair.

For their amicable discussion of the role the Republican organization should play during the coming years and the announcement by Mr. Nixon that he wanted Bliss to remain in his present post should put a stop to persistent rumors since the election that the president-elect wanted to supplant the chairman with someone who would more glamorously preach the virtues of the new administration in speeches and public statements.

These rumors, I am sure, emanated from people who coveted the Bliss job.

It seems to be true that Mr. Nixon believes that, in the situation in which he will find himself as president, he, himself, cannot be too partisan a spokesman because he will need the support of a Congress controlled by Democrats. Nor can the Republican congressional leaders speak for anyone except their legislative supporters. For that reason he feels that there should be someone who can speak for the Republican party as a whole.

BUT THE PRESIDENT-ELECT also realized that the GOP National Committee must be headed by a man who will maintain and strengthen the party in the states and localities in anticipation of the elections in 1970 and 1972.

Thus it is suggested that two quite different functions must be carried out if the Republican party is to have a major role in governing the country in the years to come. One is that of a sort of evangelist; the other the work of a manager. Unquestionably Bliss fits the latter role. He has no desire to be a spokesman.

In the past, national chairmen of both parties have tried to perform both functions. And since most chairmen have been part-time workers, neither job has been done very well, at least in the years since Will Hays was GOP chairman 50 years ago.

Another aspect of the new situation is that the Republican party can no longer be in opposition since it possesses the great power and prestige of the White House.

An excellent suggestion has been made to resolve the problem faced by the new president and his party: use the Republican Co-ordinating Committee, through its chairman, as the voice of the party. This committee was established by Bliss shortly after he became chairman in 1965. It represents all elements of the GOP. Its members include:

All former Republican presidential candidates who are still living: Goldwater, Nixon, Eisenhower, Dewey and Landon.

Six officers of the National Republican Committee.

All of the official members of the congressional leadership.

A number of Republican governors selected by the GOP Governors Association.

A representative of the Republican State Legislators Association.

Since its creation the Co-ordinating Committee chairman has been the national chairman, Ray Bliss.

The suggestion is that this committee be somewhat restructured with a party spokesman at its head who should be selected by the new president with the assent of Bliss. This man would have an executive director whose duty would be to maintain continuous contact with the Nixon administration where, to a great degree, party policy would be created.

Bliss would remain as chairman of the National Committee and while carrying on the normal activities of the office he should somewhat restructure his organization by appointing a number of regional directors on a full-time basis. At present, the special problems of the party, especially in the fast-growing South, need more direct attention than is possible from Washington.

And as the 1968 campaign indicated, party organizations need strengthening in many states, especially in the Northeast.

IT IS ALMOST IRRELEVANT to speak of a Republican or a Democratic party as if they were monthly structures. They are both made up of many semi-dependent units and many unrelated units. There are party congressional leaders, the national administration, the governors, the state and local party organizations and the state legislatures.

Theoretically, the national committees represent the only means of cementing all of these assorted units.

The plan I have suggested above would provide the cohesion and co-operation essential for the success of at least one of the two national parties.

WHO WILL TAKE GRANDMA

Who will take Grandma? Who will it be?
All of us want her, I'm sure you'll agree.
Let's call a meeting, let's gather the clan,
Let's get it settled as soon as we can.
In such a big family there's certainly one
Willing to give her a place in the sun.

Strange how we thought that she'd never wear out,
But see how she walks, it's arthritis, no doubt.
Her eyesight is faded, her memory's dim
She's apt to insist on the silliest whim.
When people get older they become such a care,
She must have a home, but the question is, where?

Remember the days when she used to be spry?
Baked her own Cookies and made her own Pie?
Helped us with Lessons and tended our seams,
Kissed away our Troubles and mended our Dreams?
Wonderful Grandma, We all love her so.
Isn't it dreadful she's no place to go?

One little corner is all she would need.
A shoulder to cry on. Her Bible to read.
A chair by the window with sun coming through,
Some pretty Spring Flowers still covered with dew.
Who'll warm her with love so she won't mind the cold?
Oh, who will take Grandmother now that she's old?

What? Nobody wants her? Oh, yes, there is one
Willing to give her a place in the Sun,
Where she won't have to worry or wonder or doubt,
And she won't be our problem to worry about,
Pretty soon now, God will give her a bed,
But who'll dry our tears when Dear Grandma is Dead?

MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Ready To Meet
Christ

An important promise was made to mankind in the Book of Acts, chapter one. Note these words: "And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight. And while he looked steadfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel; Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as you have seen him go into heaven." In these words we have the account of the ascension of Christ. Jesus was taken up in the clouds.

These words also contain an important promise concerning the return of Christ. It was promised that Jesus would come again. There are a number of other passages that also contain firm promises from God that Jesus would return.

The time of the return of Christ has not been revealed to men. In fact, Jesus did not even know himself when he was to return. The Father alone knew. Mt. 24:36 "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only." It seems strange in view of the above statement, that people would claim that they know when the end of time is going to be. All such speculation would be folly. Jesus is going to return, but when, we do not know. This is the reason that his return is spoken of as compared to a thief who comes in the night. If we knew that the thief were coming, we would be watching and ready. If we knew when Jesus was coming, there would be a lot of people who would wait until the time was almost here, and then they would make ready. God doesn't want this kind of preparation. Various dates have been set by different people concerning the time that they thought Jesus would come. (Some said 1914, 1925, 1962, etc.) The fact that a man would even try to predict the time is an open testimony to the world that he does not know what he is talking about. No man of sound judgment and any Bible knowledge, would seek to say when Jesus is returning.

Since it is true that we do not know the time of the return of Christ, we should be watching and ready for his return at any time. Mt. 24:42 "Watch therefore; for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." Are you ready to meet the Lord should he come now? The only way that we can be sure that we are ready is to get ready and stay ready at all times. If you have not confessed the Lord before men and been baptized for the remission of sins, you are not ready. Acts 2:38. Are you living a faithful life in Christ? Why not get ready now?

An important promise was made to mankind in the Book of Acts, chapter one. Note these words. The time of the return of Christ has not been revealed to men. In fact, Jesus did not even know himself when he was to return. The Father alone knew. Mt. 24:36 "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only." It seems strange in view of the above statement, that people would claim that they know when the end of time is going to be. All such speculation would be folly. Jesus is going to return, but when, we do not know. This is the reason that his return is spoken of as compared to a thief who comes in the night. If we knew that the thief were coming, we would be watching and ready. If we knew when Jesus was coming, there would be a lot of people who would wait until the time was almost here, and then they would make ready. God doesn't want this kind of preparation. Various dates have been set by different people concerning the time that they thought Jesus would come. (Some said 1914, 1925, 1962, etc.) The fact that a man would even try to predict the time is an open testimony to the world that he does not know what he is talking about. No man of sound judgment and any Bible knowledge, would seek to say when Jesus is returning.

Since it is true that we do not know the time of the return of Christ, we should be watching and ready for his return at any time. Mt. 24:42 "Watch therefore; for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." Are you ready to meet the Lord should he come now? The only way that we can be sure that we are ready is to get ready and stay ready at all times. If you have not confessed the Lord before men and been baptized for the remission of sins, you are not ready. Acts 2:38. Are you living a faithful life in Christ? Why not get ready now?

Man Surrenders At Courthouse In Violation Case

LISBON — Luther Griggs, 27, of Lisbon RD 3, who disappeared from Columbiana County more than six years ago while on probation for burglary, surrendered at the Courthouse Thursday and made bond of $1,000 for a probation violation hearing.

Griggs pleaded guilty in the fall of 1961 to a charge of breaking into the War Memorial Building at Salem and attempting to remove a pay telephone. He was residing in Salem at the time.

Granted probation for five years Dec. 7, 1961, he was brought into court the next October and was found in violation of probation terms. The court changed certain conditions and continued probation. Richard Rose, adult probation officer, issued an arrest order Nov. 6, 1962, when Griggs failed to report.

Griggs was located in Phoenix, Ariz., last November when he applied for a job as an insurance agent and it was learned he was wanted here as a probation violator.

Griggs surrendered on the advice of council he retained in Phoenix after Gov. James A. Rhodes asked the governor of Arizona to return him to Lisbon. The extradition hearing was scheduled for Feb. 3.

your inquiring mind

CHECK THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS THAT YOU MAY HAVE ASKED YOURSELF:

( ) Can there be more to life than eating, sleeping, studying, working and playing?

( ) What is the purpose of my life?

( ) Does God really exist? Can I know Him personally?

If you checked any of these questions, you're the kind of person who "knows" that life should be more than just living. You have an inquiring mind — one that wants to know what life is all about.

You've asked yourself some pretty important questions. Now follow through. Come to church regularly, and get the answers from God.

Return Of City's 'Big Dipper'

Cautious motorist veers away from blacktopped 'dip' on Freeway ramp.

By ROBERT POPP

At Meyers Lake Part in Canton, where the potters picnic each June, there's an amusement device called The Jackrabbit that offers a pitching, tossing ride in comparatively gentle undulations for those too timid to venture onto the rollercoaster.

But East Liverpool motorists get the same effect—for free—on a ramp that leads from the Freeway in West End to connect with W. 8th St.

It sank once and was repaired; now it's sinking again. Apparently the possibilities for subsidence are endless.

SOME DRIVERS call the freakish spot in the ramp "the big dipper" because autos nose down into the slight depression for a moment and then back to the normal level, giving that same breathtaking experience provided by an amusement park ride—although on a smaller scale.

Nobody ever has diagnosed the root cause of the trouble because nobody ever has taken the trouble to excavate through a blacktop patch, reinforced concrete and several feet of earth to find what's crumbling away down there. Diagnosis or not, the prognosis is for continued debilitation.

The dip became very pronounced last winter and spring. The city persuaded the Ohio Highway Department to provide a standard black and yellow warning sign to be erected in advance of the site warning: "Dip."

SOMEBODY ASKED at that time if the state had another sign in stock to warn of possible twin depressions in the pavement, something like: "Double Dip." The state replied with a straight face that such signs are not manufactured as standard items.

Shortly after the "Dip" sign was installed, the growing depression in the concrete was filled with a huge batch of blacktop. That leveled it with the rest of the pavement and everything was fine, but only for a few months.

Then that sinking feeling hit anew, and the pavement started to develop the swaybacked appearance all over again. Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey offered a logical explanation for the gradually sinking spot at the time the first dip was corrected.

HE POINTED out the spot is almost on a line with former Chestnut St., which was eliminated — along with nearby areas — when the Freeway bridge and interchange were constructed.

The supposition is that when one of the homes was razed the cellar excavation was filled with old lumber and other material that began a slow disintegration. By the winter of 1967-68, the theory goes, the lumber had rotted to the point that it gave way under the steady pounding of traffic and the earth and the concrete pavement began to subside gradually.

The dip was acute at the time the depression first was filled with blacktop. It was enough to pop a motorcyclist's eyes if he hit it unexpectedly. The leveling course of blacktop made everything smooth again for a few weeks. Then the sinking began again.

THERE'S A noticeable jog in the pavement again, but it is not as deep as the original "dipper."

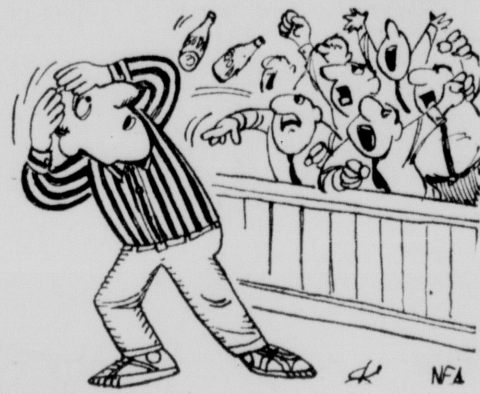

The "Dip" sign came down when the pavement was leveled. But prophetically, the standard that supported it was left in place. The city may need it again one of these days soon.

The Freeway segment was built with state and federal money with only a comparatively small contribution from the city. But once it was completed and accepted officially by Ohio and U.S. agencies, the responsibility for maintenance passed to the city. That includes items such as pavement patching, in addition to snow removal, guardrail repair and other expenditures.

You And The Law

"Boy, if I ever get out of this mess alive, I'm going to make a will," Tom told his buddies during a fierce battle in 1943. True to his word, Tom had a lawyer draft a will for him as soon as he returned "stateside."

Witnesses to the will were two of Tom's Army buddies. "Guess that takes care of that," Tom said, then promptly put the will in a file box, where it collected dust for years.

ONE DAY, while crossing the street Tom was struck and killed by a car.

The dusty will was removed from the file box and given to Tom's lawyer. "I didn't know Tom had a will," the lawyer said. "He always refused to make one when I asked him to. I gave up on him."

"I just found it rummaging around in his papers," Tom's widow said. "According to the date, he wrote it just a few days after we got married. He never told me about it."

The will left everything to the widow. Tom's brother protested.

"He owed me a lot. I did work for him years ago and never got a nickel for it. He always said that he'd pay me back someday. I want some of that property," he demanded.

OVER THE years, Tom's signature had gone from a legible scrawl to an illegible series of marks. The signatures used by him at the time of his death was quite unlike the one on the will.

"I don't think this is Tom's will," the brother said. "I want somebody to prove he wrote it."

Unfortunately, the witnesses were nowhere to be found. A check of military records were of no help. Tom's Army buddies had disappeared. None of Tom's earlier papers could be found to prove the signature, so the court declared the will invalid. The widow got only part of what her husband had intended.

Many wills in existence today contain names of witnesses who are dead or could not be easily located. Check your will occasionally to make certain that, should the situation arise, it could be proven valid.

Basically, a contract is a promise which creates a legal obligation.

Many contracts are verbal or implied. Pick a candy bar from the rack of a store and you have made the offer to purchase. When the clerk smiles and says "Ten cents, please," the store has accepted your offer. When you pay the money — the consideration—the contract is complete and you own the candy bar.

Formal contracts are a different matter. Most often, they obligate you to a specific payment agreement, with penalties for late payments or non-payment, and may involve other elements, such as the seller "cleaning up that used car" before delivery.

TOO OFTEN, a person signs a contract without reading the various provisions. They sign the papers then discover later that they failed to notice a certain item, such as "you will have the entire house painted within six months of this date or there will be a penalty of $—."

Sometimes, a buyer will rely on the word of a sales person that "everything is all right," rather than on what the contract states.

Under the law, once your name is on the contract, you are obligated to its provisions, unless you can prove fraud or some other situation which would make it invalid.

FOR YOUR own protection, follow these steps:

1.—Read every paper you are asked to sign.

2.—Don't sign any paper which has blank spaces on it. Don't let someone "fill them in later."

3.—Don't rely on sales talk. If the provision you want is not in the contract, don't sign the contract.

4.—If you can't understand the contract, don't sign it until it is explained to your satisfaction.

5.—If you're not satisfied, see a lawyer before you sign, not after.

At one Manhattan party, a group of ex-Ohioans were recounting the joys of their state whereupon a New Yorker asked: "If Ohio was so good, why did you leave?" "Well, you see," James Thurber replied, "out there the competition is too tough."

AWARD PRESENTED. John Jones of Salineville RD 1 received a "Meritorious Achievement Award" from Fred E. Morr, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, in recognition of Jones' many years of leadership in the Ohio Conservation Congress and for furthering awareness of the state's natural resources among youth groups.

Ohio's rabbit season runs till Jan. 25. This small, furry creature is considered the Number One game animal in the entire country.

No one knows how many cottontail are shot each year; it probably reaches twenty-plus millions. Ohio's kill is estimated to be nearly two million bunnies. So, it takes a lot of cottontails at the beginning of the breeding season to produce a large surplus for hunters to harvest millions of bunnies.

That's the real reason for the cottontails, popularity, he thrives in the country and suburban areas; he's plentiful and he's available to everyone. Rabbit country is farmland that has plenty of grass, thickets and tangles, overgrown fence rows and old orchards.

In wintertime, cottontails stay close to weed patches, farm dumps, windbreaks, buildings, evergreens and brush piles. On farms with little cover the rabbits will probably be concentrated around buildings. Orchards with thick grass between the trees and discarded prunings are also good places to hunt for cottontails.

Rabbits head for dens when the mercury dips below 10-12 degrees. A Michigan wildlife biologist found that 42 per cent of the dens he checked were being occupied by rabbits when the temperature ranged from 12 degrees to minus eight degrees. So rabbits don't like to be out running around in real cold weather any better than you do. You'd be better off to stay home.

During warm spells grab the gun and dog (if you have one) and head for the country. If the normal rabbit fails to produce bunnies, hunt grassed waterways in fields and around farm ponds if they aren't grazed.

The cottontail is out there, he's fun to hunt and rabbit fricassee is great.

This is the time of year when people are starting to think about their summer vacations. Many will do the routine thing by spending three or four nights in a swanky motel and return home to tell their friends what a glorious time they had.

But some people are a little more adventurous than this. These are the people who do their traveling in mobile homes, a pastime becoming more popular all the time in this country.

A good many of these traveling homes come complete with the usual household necessities; a shower, chemical toilet, propane stove, sink and refrigerator. Most models provide the occupants with adequate sleeping space.

If you're seriously considering buying one of these rolling homes, don't think you can just jump in them and go on your merry way. They're not quite like handling the family car. It takes some practice to get used to the new feeling of an extra load.

THE TIDE of boating popularity will reach a new high level again this year, stimulated dramatically by the largest array of sailing craft ever.

Riding the crest is the fleet of Canadian boats which came into port at Cleveland Friday for the Mid-America Boat Show. Canada will present a wide selection of craft ranging from class dinghies to ocean yachts. Many models will be shown for the first time.

In recent years the growing popularity of sailing has been evident throughout North America. Sailboats now account for one-third of all pleasure craft manufactured in Canada and the sport is at a new peak in the United States, considerably increasing the ratio of sailboat dealers to all boat dealers.

Of the 18 companies participating in the Canadian Exhibit at the Mid-America Boat Show, 13 are displaying sailboats manufactured of aluminum or fiberglass. Some builders are seeking to establish new sailing class associations while others are expanding existing fleets.

BEFORE you start, make sure your rear view mirrors are lined up so you won't have to go through a lot of ducking and twisting to see what's behind you.

Once you get started you don't have to worry about any complicated shifting since all modern models come with automatic transmissions, power brakes and power steering.

Side Glances

By Gill Fox

"It's about my wife. She had on a blue coat, a red hat and was heavily armed with credit cards!"

The equipment on some models necessitates a lot of machinery on board to operate it. Some have electric pumps for the water supply that takes over when the air pressure drops to a non-operating level. There are replaceable propane tanks for kitchen utilities in case one tank goes bad.

ONE THING to remember when you're on the road is your driving a mobile home, not a race car. Find the speed at which your vehicle seems to handle best and stick to it.

Of course the cost of one of these homes is high, but the cost is well worth it over a period of years. When you consider there are no motel, hotel, or restaurant bills, it becomes quite evident how much can be saved.

The old-time canvas campers probably wonder what is adventurous about driving around in a modern camper. Different things are adventurous to different people, and it just happens a lot of people find traveling in modern campers adventurous.

Even though the snow is still on the ground, many fishermen are probably thinking of the prize catches they'll make this year. Most anglers will no doubt resort to the modern lures, leaving the old reliable ones, such as the bobber, hidden away in the bottom of their tackle boxes.

Some fishermen like to think they've "outgrown" the bobber.

However, this traditional symbol of barefoot lads has as much significance in the tackle boxes of experts as it does hitched to the cane pole of a beginner.

A bobber can be extremely valuable to even the most proficient caster under certain conditions. Though it's a simple, inexpensive accessory, it extends the versatility of spinning and casting rigs when conventional techniques prove unequal to the task at hand.

A small transparent float can be used to convert a spinning rig for fly casting when fish are rising to the surface. Although not as satisfactory as a flyrod, this modified outfit gets you back into business during the feverish action of a "hatch."

When drift fishing over weed beds the use of a bobber allows you to keep your bait or light lure at the proper depth without continually "hanging up."

It is also handy for slow trolling in shallow waters. You can fish with a long line, far back from any disturbance the boat makes. And it prevents the lure from sinking too deeply into the snags.

For many situations the bobber is indispensable. It definitely belongs among the array of equipment possessed by every angler.

Stamps In The News

Despite the fact that the Communist government maintains its stronghold on the Chinese mainland, the Republic of China (in exile on Formosa) still clings to the hope of freedom for all Chinese on the Asiatic continent. This hope is typified on a new stamp from the Republic which repeats — in Chinese characters — a phrase of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address "of the people, by the people, for the people," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

This same expression in Chinese appeared on a U.S. commemorative issued in 1942 to honor the Chinese people's five years of resistance to Japanese aggression.

The new stamp features the national flag and celebrates the 20th anniversary of the Constitution. The stamp is available at your local stamp dealer.

THE UNITED Nations Postal Administration will issue six new stationery items including a 6-cent envelope (in two sizes) 10 cent airmail envelope (in two sizes), a 5-cent postal card and an 8-cent airmail postal card.

Mint orders for the stationery should be addressed to the UN Postal Administration, United Nations, New York, N.Y. 10017. Remember to add one cent additional for each item (6-cent envelope is 7 cents). Also remember to send an enlarged envelope for the return.

DID YOU ever wonder what happens to stolen stamps? Well, like stolen paintings or other artistic objects, they are usually sold to unsuspecting (sometimes) collectors in another part of the country or even another country, reports the American Philatelic Society's Stamp Theft Committee.

One method of sale is via itinerant peddlers, often referred to as "satchel dealers" who go from city to city and from stamp club to stamp club peddling their wares from a briefcase or a suitcase. These transactions are risky and could boomerang on a well meaning purchaser. The Committee urges collectors to buy only from well established and reputable dealers or stamp sources.

THE APS continues its findings with a warning to beware of those individuals who are trying to sell stamps "inherited from a deceased relative." Such circumstances are not unusual — but neither are such claims always true. Documentary evidence of the inheritance should be demanded or a bill of sale shown prior to entering any such transaction.

He maketh the storm a calm, so that the waves thereof are still.

—(Psalms 107:29 A.V.)

There is a center of stillness in the midst of us even when we are at our stormiest. We find this center as we calm down and let the storm abate, the waves of emotion subside. We can learn to hold steady to the center of peace which is Christ within us. As we practice keeping ourselves centered and poised in the Christ Mind, we shall find it easier to keep serene and poised.

AWARD PRESENTED. John Jones of Salineville RD 1 received a "Meritorious Achievement Award" from Fred E. Morr, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, in recognition of Jones' many years of leadership in the Ohio Conservation Congress and for furthering awareness of the state's natural resources among youth groups.

Ohio's rabbit season runs till Jan. 25. This small, furry creature is considered the Number One game animal in the entire country.

No one knows how many cottontails are shot each year; it probably reaches twenty-plus millions. Ohio's kill is estimated to be nearly two million bunnies. So, it takes a lot of cottontails at the beginning of the breeding season to produce a large surplus for hunters to harvest millions of bunnies.

That's the real reason for the cottontails' popularity, he thrives in the country and suburban areas; he's plentiful and he's available to everyone. Rabbit country is farmland that has plenty of grass, thickets and tangles, overgrown fencerows and old orchards.

In wintertime, cottontails stay close to weed patches, farm dumps, windbreaks, buildings, evergreens and brush piles. On farms with little cover the rabbits will probably be concentrated around buildings. Orchards with thick grass between the trees and discarded prunings are also good places to hunt for cottontails.

Rabbits head for dens when the mercury dips below 10-12 degrees. A Michigan wildlife biologist found that 42 per cent of the dens he checked were being occupied by rabbits when the temperature ranged from 12 degrees to minus eight degrees. So rabbits don't like to be out running around in real cold weather any better than you do. You'd be better off to stay home.

During warm spells grab the gun and dog (if you have one) and head for the country. If the normal rabbit fails to produce bunnies, hunt grassed waterways in fields and around farm ponds if they aren't grazed.

The cottontail is out there, he's fun to hunt and rabbit fricassee is great.

This is the time of year when people are starting to think about their summer vacations. Many will do the routine thing by spending three or four nights in a swanky motel and return home to tell their friends what a glorious time they had.

But some people are a little more adventurous than this. These are the people who do their traveling in mobile homes, a pastime becoming more popular all the time in this country.

A good many of these traveling homes come complete with the usual household necessities; a shower, chemical toilet, propane stove, sink and refrigerator. Most models provide the occupants with adequate sleeping space.

If you're seriously considering buying one of these rolling homes, don't think you can just jump in them and go on your merry way. They're not quite like handling the family car. It takes some practice to get used to the new feeling of an extra load.

THE TIDE of boating popularity will reach a new high level again this year, stimulated dramatically by the largest array of sailing craft ever.

Riding the crest is the fleet of Canadian boats which came into port at Cleveland Friday for the Mid-America Boat Show. Canada will present a wide selection of craft ranging from class dinghies to ocean yachts. Many models will be shown for the first time.

In recent years the growing popularity of sailing has been evident throughout North America. Sailboats now account for one-third of all pleasure craft manufactured in Canada and the sport is at a new peak in the United States, considerably increasing the ratio of sailboat dealers to all boat dealers.

Of the 18 companies participating in the Canadian Exhibit at the Mid-America Boat Show, 13 are displaying sailboats manufactured of aluminum or fiberglass. Some builders are seeking to establish new sailing class associations while others are expanding existing fleets.

BEFORE you start, make sure your rear view mirrors are lined up so you won't have to go through a lot of ducking and twisting to see what's behind you.

Once you get started you don't have to worry about any complicated shifting since all modern models come with automatic transmissions, power brakes and power steering.

Side Glances

By Gill Fox

"It's about my wife. She had on a blue coat, a red hat and was heavily armed with credit cards!"

The equipment on some models necessitates a lot of machinery on board to operate it. Some have electric pumps for the water supply that takes over when the air pressure drops to a non-operating level. There are replaceable propane tanks for kitchen utilities in case one tank goes bad.

ONE THING to remember when you're on the road is your driving a mobile home, not a race car. Find the speed at which your vehicle seems to handle best and stick to it.

Of course the cost of one of these homes is high, but the cost is well worth it over a period of years. When you consider there are no motel, hotel, or restaurant bills, it becomes quite evident how much can be saved.

The old-time canvas campers probably wonder what is adventurous about driving around in a modern camper. Different things are adventurous to different people, and it just happens a lot of people find traveling in modern campers adventurous.

Even though the snow is still on the ground, many fishermen are probably thinking of the prize catches they'll make this year. Most anglers will no doubt resort to the modernest lures, leaving the old reliable ones, such as the bobber, hidden away in the bottom of their tackle boxes.

Some fishermen like to think they've "outgrown" the bobber.

However, this traditional symbol of barefoot lads has as much significance in the tackle boxes of experts as it does hitched to the cane pole of a beginner.

A bobber can be extremely valuable to even the most proficient caster under certain conditions. Though it's a simple, inexpensive accessory, it extends the versatility of spinning and casting rigs when conventional techniques prove unequal to the task at hand.

A small transparent float can be used to convert a spinning rig for fly casting when fish are rising to the surface. Although not as satisfactory as a flyrod, this modified outfit gets you back into business during the feverish action of a "hatch."

When drift fishing over weed beds the use of a bobber allows you to keep your bait or light lure at the proper depth without continually "hanging up."

It is also handy for slow trolling in shallow waters. You can fish with a long line, far back from any disturbance the boat makes. And it prevents the lure from sinking too deeply into the snags.

For many situations the bobber is indispensable. It definitely belongs among the array of equipment possessed by every angler.

Stamps In The News

Despite the fact that the Communist government maintains its stronghold on the Chinese mainland, the Republic of China (in exile on Formosa) still clings to the hope of freedom for all Chinese on the Asiatic continent. This hope is typified on a new stamp from the Republic which repeats — in Chinese characters — a phrase of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address "of the people, by the people, for the people," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

This same expression in Chinese appeared on a U.S. commemorative issued in 1942 to honor the Chinese people's five years of resistance to Japanese aggression.

The new stamp features the national flag and celebrates the 20th anniversary of the Constitution. The stamp is available at your local stamp dealer.

THE UNITED Nations Postal Administration will issue six new stationery items including a 6-cent envelope (in two sizes) 10 cent airmail envelope (in two sizes), a 5-cent postal card and an 8-cent airmail postal card.

Mint orders for the stationery should be addressed to the UN Postal Administration, United Nations, New York, N.Y. 10017. Remember to add one cent additional for each item (6-cent envelope is 7 cents). Also remember to send an enlarged envelope for the return.

DID YOU ever wonder what happens to stolen stamps? Well, like stolen paintings or other artistic objects, they are usually sold to unsuspecting (sometimes) collectors in another part of the country or even another country, reports the American Philatelic Society's Stamp Theft Committee.

One method of sale is via itinerant peddlers, often referred to as "satchel dealers" who go from city to city and from stamp club to stamp club peddling their wares from a briefcase or a suitcase. These transactions are risky and could boomerang on a well meaning purchaser. The Committee urges collectors to buy only from well established and reputable dealers or stamp sources.

THE APS continues its findings with a warning to beware of those individuals who are trying to sell stamps "inherited from a deceased relative." Such circumstances are not unusual — but neither are such claims always true. Documentary evidence of the inheritance should be demanded or a bill of sale shown prior to entering any such transaction.

He maketh the storm a calm, so that the waves thereof are still.

There is a center of stillness in the midst of us even when we are at our stormiest. We find this center as we calm down and let the storm abate, the waves of emotion subside. # East Liverpool Freeze Holds Off Barberton In 49-46 Win

Steve Douglas Gets Key Hoop

BY TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

A key basket by Steve Douglas with 1:22 to go propelled East Liverpool to a 49-46 win over Barberton at Barberton last night.

The victory was the 10th in 11 games for East Liverpool and upped the Potters record in the Big 8 to 3-0. Barberton is 8-4 overall and 2-2 in league play.

East Liverpool had a slim 43-41 lead with 4 minutes to go. The Potters then froze the ball, with Barberton failing to come out of its 1-3-1 zone, until 1:26 was left, when Bill Montgomery missed the foul shot, but Douglas got the rebound and made a reverse lay-up.

Barberton missed a shot and John Johnson rebounded, starting a fast break with Jerry Christian on the scoring end. Jerry Uhyrk made a foul for the Magics, but Christian worked loose underneath for a basket to make it 49-42 with 33 seconds to go. Andy Bodnar hit a long shot and Rusty McCune stole the ball for a basket to make the final score close.

Christian led all scorers with 17 and all rebounders with 11. Rick Steffen added 14 points for the Potters. Elwood Palmer topped the home team with 13 points and Uhyrk and Bodnar had 10 each. Bill Velloney led the Magics with 10 rebounds, while the 6-8 Uhyrk had 9.

Barberton had a 40-34 rebounding edge, but the Potters committed only 9 turnovers to 12 for the losers. East Liverpool took five less shots from the field, but connected on three more, hitting 38 per cent to 29 per cent for Barberton. The Magics got numerous follow-up shots, but couldn't hit from outside. Both teams hit well from the foul line.

The first period was deliberately played, with 2:47 elapsing before a field goal was scored. The Potters led 9-6, but Barberton had an 8-2 surge to take a 14-11 lead, their biggest of the game, early in the second period. Barberton led most of the quarter, but Montgomery hit a long shot just before the half ended to give the Potters the lead for good, 23-22.

Steffen hit three long shots as the third period opened and the margin widened to 34-27. But Palmer hit a jump shot and Uhyrk was fouled on the play. He made both ends of a one-and-one to put the Magics back in contention.

In the final period both teams slowed the action down, as the margin varied between two and four points. But the Potters kept their poise, and never lost the ball in their freezes, and hung on for the win.

Winning coach Clint McConnell was pleased with the ball-handling and poise shown by his team, and also had a special word of praise for Douglas.

The Potters return home tonight to host Steubenville Central.

MILLER MEASURE, Bill Miller of Wellsville eyes the hoop as he gets ready to shoot over Dave Mason of Beaver Local. Tigers won 57-38 at Beaver Local last night.

Wellsville Downs Beavers

The Wellsville Tigers made it two straight over backyard rival Beaver Local with a 57-34 victory Friday night before a packed house at the Beavers' court.

Another balanced attack, showing four starters in the double figures, paid off for Coach Bob Dawson's five, who are the pacesetters in the Buckeye Border Conference, remaining undefeated after last night's league game. The Tigers over-all record stands at 9-2.

Bill Miller pumped in 15 points followed by Ken Kornbau and John Bobalik with 11 each while Joe D'Angelo added 10.

The Tigers grabbed an 11-5 first quarter lead and never looked back by posting a 23-12 halftime lead and 39-21 third period margin.

Wellsville turned in another good shooting night, hitting 52 per cent on 22 of 42 while Beaver Local was 18 per cent from the floor only making 12 of 61.

In defeat, Dave Mason, the Beavers top rebounder and point maker, scored 16 and grabbed 17 rebounds.

D'Angelo and Bobalik took 15 and 14 rebounds respectively for the Tigers.

Following the game, Dawson felt Wellsville's defense was good the first half and thought Beaver Local did a good job of containing Bobalik.

Beaver coach Lloyd Stockdale said his team put up a good effort against a better balanced club and thought Mason did a fine all around job.

The Wellsville reserves also took the preliminary contest, 34-31.

Vanlier Hits Winning Goal

Midland Nips Rochester, 57-55, In Overtime Win

By JOHN MUELLER

The Midland Leopards struggled through an extra period to nip the Rochester Rams 57-55 at Rochester Friday night.

The game was one of those high school thrillers from the opening buzzer. Neither team could mount a scoring attack to break the game open. Rochester held their largest margin in the second period, a lead of seven points, 17-10. Midland held a 10-point lead for seconds at the start of the final period.

The Leopards lead at the end of three periods was 42-34 and with George Green scoring at the start of the final session they stretched it to 10, 44-34 but the Rams ran off 10 straight points and it was knotted at 44-44 with 1:46 to play.

THE GAME was a test of endurance for both teams as they played aggressive ball from the start. The game was only tied seven times, three of those coming in the fourth period and three in the overtime session. The lead changed hands eight times.

The Leopards had a cold night hitting 24 field goals in 92 attempts for a 26 per cent average. The Rams shot 65 times and netted 22 field goals, for 33 per cent.

The Leopards defense was superb although the shooting was off. They used the full court press to draw even and hold a one point edge in the second period, then applied it off and on to keep the Rams at bay as much as possible in the final sessions. Green put on a good defensive show for the fans, holding the Rams leading scorer to three points, then managed to score 15 points and pick off 22 rebounds.

Opening the game the Ram's Bob Onuska got hot and ran off three straight field goals, the last coming with 34 seconds on the clock to give Rochester a 7-6 lead. Ed Onuska dropped in a field goal with 17 seconds left and the Rams had a 9-6 lead at the quarter.

LEAK narrowed it to a point with a field goal to open the second stanza but Rochester attempted to pull away and led 15-8 then 17-10 before the Leopards full court press became effective.

Midland narrowed the margin to a single point with 32 seconds left in the period, 22-21. Greg Vanlier cut loose with a base line jumpers and the buzzer sounded as the ball went through the cords to give Midland a 23-22 lead at the half.

ROCHESTER opened the third period with three straight baskets by Ed Onuska and brothers Bob and Jim Ferencik to take a 28-23 lead. Midland battled back and tied it at 31 all on Jackie Campbell's field goal with 3:40 to play. The Leopards applied the defensive pressure and moved away to take a 42-34 lead at the end of three periods.

Green tallied for Midland to make it 44-34 at the opening of the final stanza but the Leopards went cold, scoring wise, at this point and with Ferencik leading the way with six points the Rams ran off ten straight to tie it at 44 all.

The game was nip and tuck from then on as they traded field goals to tie it at 46 all with 1:21 to play. Doug Lavette sank a layup with 24 seconds on the clock to make it 48-46 Rochester. Green grabbed a rebound following a Midland attempt and was tied up by Bob Ross for a jump ball with three seconds remaining. Green controlled the tip and Leak grabbed it with his back to the basket just to the side of the foul circle, a quick whirl, a jump and the ball hit the mark with a second left and the game tied at 48-48.

VANLIER tallied for Midland to open the extra session and Ferencik countered for the

East Liverpool Freeze Holds Off Barberton In 49-46 Win

Steve Douglas Gets Key Hoop

BY TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

A key basket by Steve Douglas with 1:22 to go propelled East Liverpool to a 49-46 win over Barberton at Barberton last night.

The victory was the 10th in 11 games for East Liverpool and upped the Potters record in the Big 8 to 3-0. Barberton is 8-4 overall and 2-2 in league play.

East Liverpool had a slim 43-41 lead with 4 minutes to go. The Potters then froze the ball, with Barberton failing to come out of its 1-3-1 zone, until 1:26 was left, when Bill Montgomery missed the foul shot, but Douglas got the rebound and made a reverse lay-up.

Barberton missed a shot and John Johnson rebounded, starting a fast break with Jerry Christian on the scoring end. Jerry Uhryk made a foul for the Magics, but Christian worked loose underneath for a basket to make it 49-42 with 33 seconds to go. Andy Bodnar hit a long shot and Rusty McCune stole the ball for a basket to make the final score close.

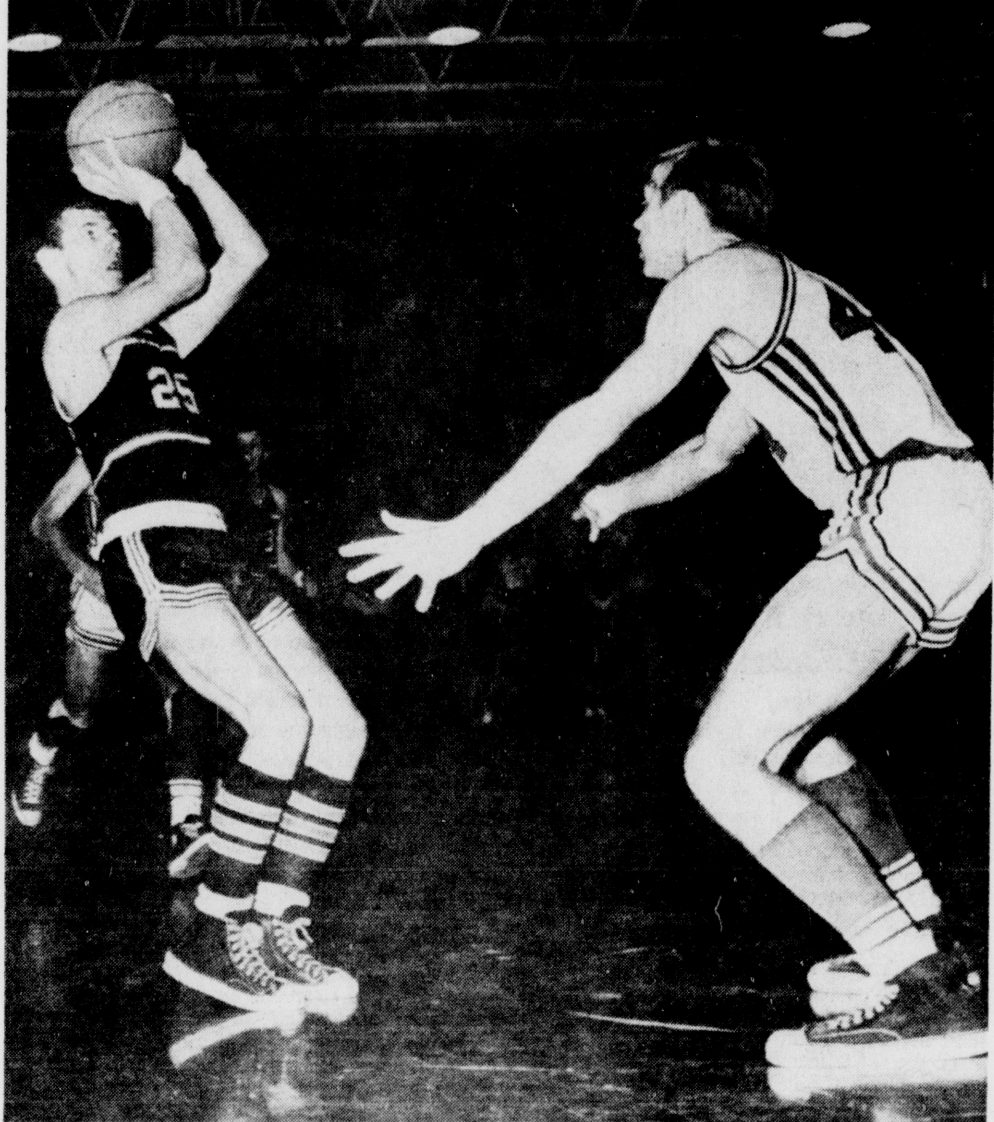

Christian led all scorers with 17 and all rebounders with 11. Rick Steffen added 14 points for the Potters. Elwood Palmer topped the home team with 13 points and Uhryk and Bodnar had 10 each. Bill Velloney led the Magics with 10 rebounds, while the 6-8 Uhryk had 9.

Barberton had a 40-34 rebounding edge, but the Potters committed only 9 turnovers to 12 for the losers. East Liverpool took five less shots from the field, but connected on three more, hitting 38 per cent to 29 per cent for Barberton. The Magics got numerous follow-up shots, but couldn't hit from outside. Both teams hit well from the foul line.

The first period was deliberately played, with 2:47 elapsing before a field goal was scored. The Potters led 9-6, but Barberton had an 8-2 surge to take

Vanlier Hits Winning Goal

Midland Nips Rochester, 57-55, In Overtime Win

By JOHN MUELLER

The Midland Leopards struggled through an extra period to nip the Rochester Rams 57-55 at Rochester Friday night.

The game was one of those high school thrillers from the opening buzzer. Neither team could mount a scoring attack to break the game open. Rochester held their largest margin in the second period, a lead of seven points, 22-21. Midland held a 10-point lead for seconds at the start of the final period.

The Leopard lead at the end of three periods was 42-34 and with George Green scoring at the start of the final session they stretched it to 10, 44-34 but the Rams ran off 10 straight points and it was knotted at 44-44 with 1:46 to play.

THE GAME was a test of endurance for both teams as they played aggressive ball from the start. The game was only tied seven times, three of those coming in the fourth period and three in the overtime session. The lead changed hands eight times.

The Leopards had a cold night hitting 24 field goals in 92 attempts for a 26 percent average. The Rams shot 65 times and netted 22 field goals, for 33 percent.

The Leopard defense was superb although the shooting was off. They used the full court press to draw even and hold a one point edge in the second period, then applied it off and on to keep the Rams at bay as much as possible in the final sessions. Green put on a good defensive show for the fans, holding the Rams leading scorer to three points, then managed to score 15 points and pick off 22 rebounds.

Opening the game the Ram's Bob Onuska got hot and ran off three straight field goals, the last coming with 34 seconds on the clock to give Rochester a 7-6 lead. Ed Onuska dropped in a field goal with 17 seconds left.

UCLA Rates Big Favorite Over Houston

After what the New York Jets did to the Baltimore Colts in football's Super Bowl game last Sunday, is another astonishing sports upset possible tonight when Houston battles UCLA in college basketball?

Just as virtually everyone expected the Colts to whip the Jets, UCLA's mighty national champions and their towering All-American, Lew Alcindor, are rated a shoo-in against the Cougars.

Yet it was only a year ago, almost to the day, that the Cougars upended UCLA 71-69 and snapped the Bruins' 47-game winning streak.

Alcindor and UCLA avenged the defeat by crushing Houston 101-69 in the semifinals of the NCAA championship tourney last March in Los Angeles, where tonight's game is scheduled.

The Bruins will be after their 28th straight, their 12th in a row this season, their 75th victory in 76 games and their 71st in 72 games since Alcindor joined the varsity at the start of the 1967 season.

Elvin Hayes, the Big E, who paced Houston in that historic upset of UCLA, has graduated and the Cougars are having a disappointing 10-6 season so far. They were beaten in overtime just last Monday by Lamar Tech.

Despite every indication of another UCLA triumph, Johnny Wooden, the UCLA coach, declares that "Houston potentially has the manpower to beat any team on a given night."

Wooden explained that "Houston's problem has been to get team consistency from a group of talented individuals." Among these are Ken Spain and Theodis Lee whose height of 6-foot-9 and 6-8 compares to Alcindor's 7-2.

None of the Top 20 teams in The Associated Press poll saw action on a dull Friday night.

Colgate scored a 79-75 victory over Buffalo behind Rick Caputo's 23 points and California downed Stanford 73-65 in major games. Both were home court triumphs.

Don't Go Dee Is Theme At Oregon State

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State football Coach Andros says he will announce today his decision on an offer to take the head coaching job at the University of Pittsburgh.

Andros met Friday night with the OSU Athletic Board. After the meeting he said he wanted to sleep on it and discuss the decision with his wife.

Before the meeting, Jim Barrett, OSU athletic director, said, "We're going after him with everything we've got." Telegrams poured in from alumni and fans, all with the theme, "Don't Go, Dee."

Barrett said he expected discussions with Andros to revolve around the "dollar sign." "We can pay about the same as Pitt," he said, "but back there fringe benefits are high. Various appearances can almost double his salary."

Andros, a popular figure at Oregon State, has compiled a 26-13-1 record in four years at the Pacific 8 Conference school. The Beavers have finished second in the conference for the last three years.

Andros was in Pittsburgh earlier this week for talks with Casimir Myslinski, Pitt's athletic director, and other university officials. Pitt is seeking a replacement for Dave Hart, who resigned as head coach after three consecutive 1-9 seasons.

A Junior Editors Quiz About LIES

QUESTION: Do lies hurt us, and if so, where?

ANSWER: Telling a lie may not cause you to break out in bright red spots, but it may very well cause you to be very much ashamed of yourself; it is going to hurt you, if not in a physical way. As you think about it, it will tend to lower yourself in your own eyes. You'll say to yourself, "So I'm Bill McCarthy, that little sneak who deserves a kick in the pants." How could anybody be happy thinking of himself like that? Just exactly where you're going to feel this sense of shame is not so easy to say. In our picture, this sinking sensation hits Bill first in his head, as he thinks about having told a lie. Then the feeling sinks down and socks him in the pit of the stomach.

None of us are perfect, so we all know more or less how Bill feels. Is there anything he can do to cure his illness? You bet there is — go to the teacher and tell the whole story, the real truth. What will the teacher do? It doesn't matter. Bill will have gotten back his self respect — he will like himself once more — he will feel strong and clean. In the old phrase he will have made a "clean breast of it."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Jan. 18, the 18th day of 1969. There are 347 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1944, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of Allied Forces in Europe, explained the purpose of his new post in a world wide broadcast. "We are going to hit the enemy. And keep hitting him until the last measure of Nazi resistance is crushed."

On this date: In 1782, Daniel Webster, American statesman, orator, and one time secretary of state, was born.

In 1912, English explorer Capt. Robert F. Scott and four companions reached the North Pole, but found Norwegian Roald Amundsen had preceded them by five weeks.

In 1919, French President Raymond Poincare formally opened the Versailles Peace Conference.

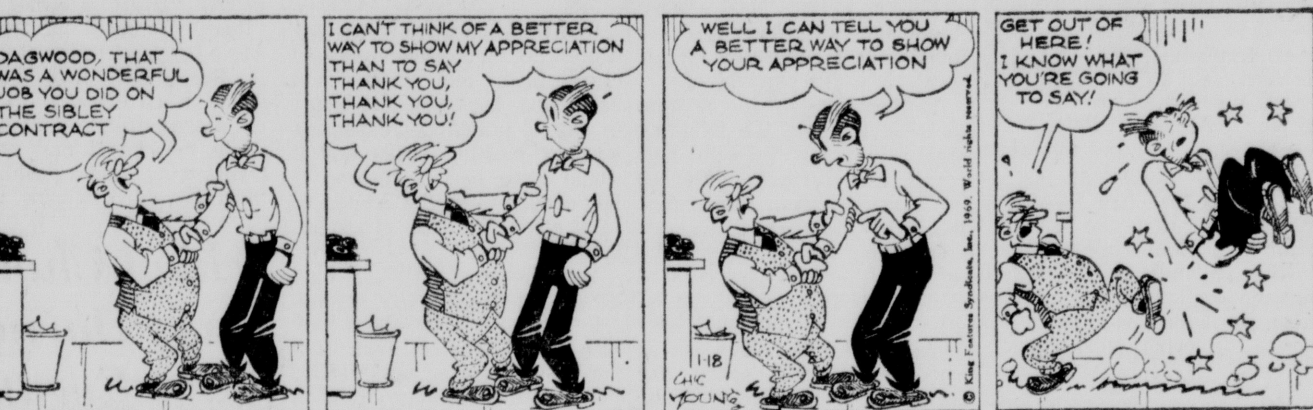

In 1943, Moscow announced the lifting of the German siege of Leningrad, which had lasted since the autumn of 1941.

Five years ago — An earthquake in southern Taiwan killed an estimated 100 persons.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

A Tip From Ex-'Trooper'

By HELOISE CRUSE
DEAR HELOISE: As a home economist who has been retired for ten years, I would like to let you in on a new tip I learned after buying our third home.

When washing woodwork or the walls, we all know to always start from the bottom and work up, but if you hold a cookie sheet in one hand while using your sponge or rag to wash with the other hand, the pan will catch the spatters from your cloth while washing! This not only saves spatters on the wall but your carpet also. Am I allowed to say that?

MOTHER ECONOMIST.

You bet your boots you are! Nobody ever wrote this in before.

Could I add another little tidbit and give a little advice to you?

If you put old bathtowels or newspapers down on your carpet or hardwood floors before you wash the woodwork or walls, that will save you some trouble, too.

We think you retired people are dolls when you write and tell us your secrets. Don't you ever forget we all love you.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Doesn't this sound like it would work? A children's rummage sale in the neighborhood with toys and outgrown clothes?

It could be run by the children and supervised by an adult.

Think how much fun it would be for the children and at the same time give the parents a chance to exchange their children's outgrown clothes for some that would fit.

And, the kiddies could get "new" toys too! ! !

LILLITH.

Somebody loves you.

And don't wonder who. . . .

God's greatest gift to me was when I met you.

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever thought of using acrylic plastic spray from a fizz can for teenagers who like to keep their corsages hanging on their walls?

Sure works for all of my six teenage daughters.

DADDY BOY.

You're a real good Daddy. About the best thing we have found in our household is hair spray. It works like whizz.

Another thing — if you want to wear it again the following night — spray it with hair spray, then sprinkle glitter on it! This is about the cutest thing I've tested. . . .

One thing I must tell you. After the glitter is poured on, turn the flower over and shake off all you can. If you don't have enough glitter left on it, put on some more hair spray and sprinkle a little more on. Then add a few more squirts of hair spray. This holds the glitter in place.

It's truly lovely.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I was on a diet and had to eat a lot of eggs. I soon got tired of them boiled and decided to try them poached. But had no egg poacher.

Then I found out that the little foil pie tins would work fine by setting one in a fry pan of water and just putting the eggs in it.

Local Resident To Advance Her Library Studies

An East Liverpool resident attending Kent State University will be among 20 college students who soon will be at work in Ohio libraries under a federal scholarship program administered by the State Library of Ohio.

She is Mrs. Lois Ann Schier of 614½ St. Clair Ave.

All the students are working toward a degree in library science with the help of a $3,000 scholarship grant from the state library. Each has agreed to begin two years work in an Ohio library after graduation this spring or summer.

Through the annual program, the state library has begun a long-range attack on the problem of recruiting outstanding librarians for positions in Ohio.

O.U. Trustees Deny Barring Of Ohioans

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio University Board of Trustees Friday denied that Ohio students were refused admission to the university because of out of state students.

Then the board adopted a resolution supporting the University's current admissions policies establishing a 20 per cent quota on out of state students.

A report to the trustees showed that Ohio University never has closed admissions to Ohio residents prior to registration day and that qualified Ohio residents have never been denied admission.

Officials also cited higher admissions requirements for out of state students.

Harvesting Of Trees At Maturity Advised

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Trees, like people, grow old" and should be regarded as a crop and harvested at maturity, the Ohio Forestry Association was told during its annual meeting here Friday.

Earl McMunn of Columbus, the association's new president and editor of the Ohio Farmer, said more trees are being planted than cut by the timber industry. And, he said, while it might seem strange to city dwellers, 25 per cent of the state is covered with trees.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

A Tip From Ex-'Trooper'

By HELOISE CRUSE
DEAR HELOISE: As a home economist who has been retired for ten years, I would like to let you in on a new tip I learned after buying our third home.

Heloise

When washing woodwork or the walls, we all know to always start from the bottom and work up, but if you hold a cookie sheet in one hand while using your sponge or rag to wash with the other hand, the pan will catch the spatters from your cloth while washing! This not only saves spatters on the wall but your carpet also. Am I allowed to say that?

MOTHER ECONOMIST.

You bet your boots you are! Nobody ever wrote this in before.

Could I add another little tidbit and give a little advice to you?

If you put old bath towels or newspapers down on your carpet or hardwood floors before you wash the woodwork or walls, that will save you some trouble, too.

We think you retired people are dolls when you write and tell us your secrets. Don't you ever forget we all love you.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever thought of using acrylic plastic spray from a fizz can for teenagers who like to keep their corsages hanging on their walls?

Sure works for all of my six teenage daughters.

DADDY BOY.

You're a real good Daddy. About the best thing we have found in our household is hair spray. It works like whizz.

Another thing — if you want to wear it again the following night — spray it with hair spray, then sprinkle glitter on it! This is about the cutest thing I've tested.

One thing I must tell you. After the glitter is poured on, turn the flower over and shake off all you can. If you don't have enough glitter left on it, put on some more hair spray and sprinkle a little more on. Then add a few more squirts of hair spray. This holds the glitter in place.

It's truly lovely.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I was on a diet and had to eat a lot of eggs. I soon got tired of them boiled and decided to try them poached. But had no egg poacher.

Then I found out that the little foil pie tins would work fine by setting one in a fry pan of water and just putting the eggs in it.

ALBERT YOUNG.

DEAR HELOISE: As my drapes got older, plus having to clean them and repin them each time, the top pleats began to sag. I priced the expensive straight pleating hooks and it would have cost a fortune to buy enough to fix the drapes, so I hit upon the idea of clothes hangers.

Yes, those extra clothes hangers everyone has lying around. I cut several into about five-inch pieces, doubled them from the top to form an upside-down "U" and tucked them into each top pleat.

Works great and now there is no sag to reveal the traverse rod.

Wheat Germ Oil Gives Vitamin 'E'

Q—What beneficial ingredient is in wheat germ oil? What does it do?

A—This is a rich source of alpha tocopherol or vitamin E which is essential to prevent destruction of red blood cells.

Recent studies have shown that persons with arthritis need less cortisone to control their disease if they take vitamin E; that this vitamin will prevent anemia in premature infants; that it is an effective remedy for digitalis poisoning; that it can ease the pains in the legs that occur on walking a short distance (intermittent claudication) due to hardening of the arteries; and that it benefits women with chronic cystic mastitis.

Q—Do choline and inositol have any beneficial effect on one's cholesterol level?

A—These are two of the lesser-known vitamins. When inositol deficiency is induced in animals the cholesterol level rises. A deficiency of choline, on the other hand, lowers the cholesterol level. These facts have not as yet resulted in any therapeutic use of these substances in human beings, probably because more reliable means of achieving the desired purpose are available.

Q—A lumbar sympathectomy was performed on a friend who had hardening of the arteries.

What is this operation and how does it help?

A—In this operation the surgeon cuts the roots of the sympathetic nerves at the point of emergence from the vertebral column just below the ribs. It is usually on both sides and tends to lower the blood pressure. Since high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries often go hand in hand, anything that helps one relieve the other. With the advent of effective drugs to control the blood pressure, this operation is not performed as often as it used to be.

Q—I am taking Tenuate. What is it given for? What are the side effects?

A—This is an appetite suppressant given to help you lose weight. Although side effects are rare, it is advisable after a short course of this drug to rely on a low calorie diet to keep your weight down.

Q—What causes low blood pressure?

A—Low blood pressure, unless it reaches shock level (an upper reading of 95) is an asset and is caused by healthful living coupled with a failure to worry yourself sick.

Assembly Chiefs Oppose Building

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The leaders of both houses of the Ohio General Assembly voiced opposition Friday to a proposal to build a new state office building on State Street opposite the Statehouse.

Senate President Pro - Tem Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Piqua, and House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Bowling Green, said they will insist that the legislative offices remain on the Statehouse grounds, either in a new underground building or in the Statehouse.

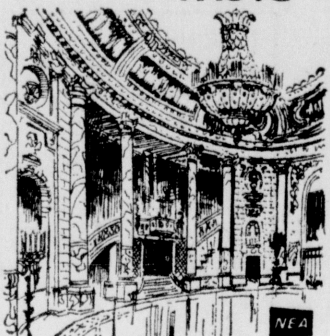

Both leaders said they do not oppose the construction of a new state office building, but they want legislators to be situated as close as possible to the House and Senate chambers in the Statehouse.

They prefer moving administrative offices out of the Statehouse to a new building and replacing them with legislative offices. Or they would adopt an architect and replace the Statehouse annex with a three-story underground building.

She is Mrs. Lois Ann Schier of 614½ St. Clair Ave.

All the students are working toward a degree in library science with the help of a $3,000 scholarship grant from the state library. Each has agreed to begin two years work in an Ohio library after graduation this spring or summer.

Through the annual program, the state library has begun a long-range attack on the problem of recruiting outstanding librarians for positions in Ohio.

Then the board adopted a resolution supporting the University's current admissions policies establishing a 20 per cent quota on out of state students.

A report to the trustees showed that Ohio University never has closed admissions to Ohio residents prior to registration day and that qualified Ohio residents have never been denied admission.

Officials also cited higher admissions requirements for out of state students.

Harvesting Of Trees At Maturity Advised

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Trees, like people, grow old" and should be regarded as a crop and harvested at maturity, the Ohio Forestry Association was told during its annual meeting here Friday.

Earl McMunn of Columbus, the association's new president and editor of the Ohio Farmer, said more trees are being planted than cut by the timber industry. And, he said, while it might seem strange to city dwellers, 25 per cent of the state is covered with trees.

'In-Hog-Urate' Counter-Action Will Mock Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the so-called counter-inaugural say they expect up to 10,000 protesters to join in peacefully mocking Richard M. Nixon's solemn installation.

The Yippie contingent plans to "in-hog-urate" a pig as President of the United States.

A reviewing stand to be surrounded by barbed wire and fixed bayonets is to be set up along the route of the protesters' counter inaugural parade Sunday.

Nixon has been invited to sit in it, Rennie Davis, a coordinator for the three days of counter-inaugural activities, said Friday.

At the demonstrators' counter-inaugural ball Sunday night the best seats will cost $2, the worst $35.

Predictions of demonstrator turnouts have consistently been far higher than actual attendance in the past. The leaders predicting 10,000 persons for the counter inaugural agree the weather and mid-term college exams will keep many protesters away.
